This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

"The Leading American Jewish Journal."

THE AMERICAN HEBREW,

A Weekly Journal for the Jewish Home.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR.

The following utterances of persons, Jews and non-Jews, many of them prominent the world over, attest to the position and influence of THE AMERICAN HEBREW.

Anatole Leroy-Beaulieu, Paris, France:—"I read The American Hebrew regularly and always with both interest and profit to myself. It is a sheet which does honor to Judaism and to the United States."

Hon. Oscar S. Straus, Minister to Turkey:—"During my residence in Turkey your paper serves to keep me au courant with the affairs of the Jewish community at home."

Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, President of the Montefiore Home:—"The wish to which I give expression, that the paper may continue to prosper, voices not only my own, but the general sentiments of the community."

Hon. A. S. Solomons, General Agent Baron de Hirsch Fund:—"There is concentrated in your journal all that is desirable, making it a scintillating centre of Jewish affairs second to none in the country."

Zadoc Kahn, Grand Rabbi of France:—"Your journal has won for itself a prominent place in American Judaism; in fact, in Judaism the world over."

Mr. Henry Rice, President United Hebrew Charities:—"Every new edifice erected for the amelioration of our numerous poor, has a stone marked for the noble aid your esteemed journal has ever given to the cause. Your efforts in that line stand out pre-eminently."

Mr. Albert F. Hochstadter, Vice-President N. Y. Educational Alliance:—"The American Hebrew occupies the very first place among the Jewish journals of the United States."

Hon. Isidor Straus, President Educational Alliance:—"Its usual methods of treating questions entitle it to a high place as a journal devoted to what is best and noblest in Jewish endeavor."

Mr. Isaac Wallach, President Mt. Sinai Hospital:—"Your journal is like an old companion to me. I look for it every Friday evening and read it with much pleasure."

The Late Baroness de Hirsch, to Mrs. Rebekah Kohut:—"Tell The American Hebrew editors that I rely upon their paper for information concerning the Jews and the Jewish institutions of America."

Mrs. Jacob H. Hecht, Boston, Mass.:—"Its broad and liberal spirit, and its knowledge of what is good in Israel arouses an intelligent interest wherever the paper appears."

Richard Grant White, in his last book, "The Fate of Mansfield Humphreys," said:—"There is a weekly journal, published in New York, marked in some of its articles by that union of subtility, strength and breadth of view which are the intellectual characteristics of the race to which it is addressed, and which is called The American Hebrew."

Mr. James H. Hoffman, President Hebrew Technical Institute:—"I consider it the leading Jewish journal in this country."

Mr. Edward Lauterbach:—"This newspaper has become veritably a leader in Israel, a safe guide and counsellor to the Jewish communities in America."

Mr. Simon Borg, President Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews:—"I regard the publication as being justly entitled to a prominent position in the first rank of the exponents of Jewish affairs."

PREFACE

Everything must have a beginning, and the beginning is necessarily imperfect. Errors, no doubt, abound in this volume and omissions are numerous. It is natural that these failings will at once attract attention. Future issues can be made more accurate, and hence more serviceable, if readers will be good enough to send to the Editor notice of any omissions or errors which may come to their attention.

It is hoped that the Calendar will be found convenient in form. The original intention was to supply information as to the hour of the commencement of the Sabbath, etc., but owing to the great extent of the country this was found impracticable.

The spread of Jews all over our vast country seemed to make it desirable that a Directory should form the principal feature of this Year Book. The difficulties in compiling it were very great, arising partly from an inability to secure the names of minor organizations in large cities and of any organization in small towns, partly from the unwillingness of the officers of some Congregations and Societies to fill out the blanks sent them. All information derived from unofficial sources is marked with a star (*); the remainder has been received from officials of the various organizations, and may be relied upon as authentic.

An almost infinite variety in the spelling of Hebrew names will be found in the Directory. For this the Editor is in no wise responsible. The only proper course seemed to be to employ the transliteration used by Congregations and Societies themselves. It may be said, however, that this lack of uniformity has a certain value, since it exhibits in our midst most of the peculiarities of Hebrew pronunciation now in existence.

A cursory examination of the Directory as well as of the list of Jewish Periodicals (for which but little time could be allowed the compiler) will, I think, convince the most pessimistic that Jewish ideals have a strong hold upon the Jews of the United States, especially in the direction of charitable and educational work.

In placing this first issue of the American Jewish Year Book before the members of the Society I desire to express my heartiest thanks to those who have aided me—a list so long that the bare mention of names is impossible—and to ask kindly criticism of a work which had to be done hastily and amidst numerous exacting official duties.

CYRUS ADLER.

THE JEWS OF THE UNITED STATES

By Abram S. Isaacs

The record of the Jews of the United States each succeeding year, as the population steadily increases, with corresponding growth in religious, charitable and educational institutions, becomes more and more noteworthy. There has always been a fair development along various lines in the peculiarly happy atmosphere that is so genial for all religions; but the marked changes that have followed successive landslides of immigrants to American shores have demanded broader and more effective agencies, and given, to a certain degree, shape and direction to our community. While in many countries the mediæval spirit still prevails, making the Jew a wanderer and outcast, on American soil he seems to be preparing a distinctly new era, and, composed of representatives of every clime and nationality, American Israel meets with full confidence the currents of the time. No such phenomena have ever been experienced by the Jew in all the lands and ages of his dispersion as are here presented; and, despite aberrations and contradictions that cannot be disguised and certain dangerous tendencies, which appear somewhat to affect all creeds under rapid transit American conditions, the genius of the Jew, his adaptativeness, energy, persistency, is finding ample field for the highest and most varied endeavor.

The year's record of new immigration from September, 1898, to September, 1899, is not yet complete, but the returns furnished by the United States Bureau of Immigration from June, 1898, to June, 1899, show 37,415 under the heading "Hebrews," out of a total of 311,707—a discrimination which has been properly condemned, but is held by the officials to be expedient. With but few exceptions, these thousands are quietly and satisfactorily coping with their new environment. The exact proportion of those seeking the larger cities cannot be ascertained; but each year they are scattered in greater numbers, and are selecting more varied lines of industry and occupation. Thanks to the impetus of the Hirsch Fund, agriculture is attracting hundreds. Over six hundred farms in New England respond to their activity, while in the special New Jersey settlements success has crowned their labor. The new immigrants are building communities throughout the Union. The synagogue and the school are erected to-day where a decade ago was a wilderness. Their energy is making itself felt in different ways, and as the newcomers quickly acquire a livelihood, and give their children public school education, they are proving themselves capable American citizens, yielding to no class in patriotism and public spirit. They furnished more than their quota of volunteers to the Spanish war.

The educational activity of the year was fairly gratifying. The distinct impulse towards improvement of religious school methods, which was well maintained in Philadelphia, New York and Chicago; the third Summer Assembly of the Jewish Chautauqua; the publication of works like Abrahams' "Jewish Literature" and Dembitz's "Jewish Services in Synagogue and Home," by our Publication Society, were in themselves signs of advance. Thoughtful essays marked the sessions of the Central Conference of American Rabbis held on Rev. Dr. I. M. Wise's birthday. Rev. Dr. Drachman's translation of S. R. Hirsch's "Letters of Ben Uziel," a famous book in its day and not yet obsolete, and Rev. Dr. H. P. Mendes' "Looking Ahead," a Zionistic fantasy, were among the Jewish books of the year, to which Mrs. A. Cohnfeldt Lust's "A Tent of Grace" is to be added, and perhaps the "Dreyfus Letters," which appeared at the culmination of interest in the tragedy of Devil's Isle. Mr. Zangwill's visit, with the scintillating series of lectures that was its result, had educational as well as literary interest, and awakened vigorous and generally good-natured criticism.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the institution of Sunday services was held in Sinai Temple, Chicago, and rabbis from Cleveland, Philadelphia, Rochester, Pittsburg, etc., who sympathize with the movement, gave addresses. It cannot be said, however, that the Sunday Sabbath has proved more than an incident; it has not made the headway anticipated, and while it keenly suggests the difficulties that beset Jewish observance, it arouses effort to overcome the danger. Thus, the growth of the Council of Jewish Women, which has now 6000 contributing members, and whose branches extend throughout the country, is a happy augury. One of its most cherished principles is to promote Sabbath reverence. In addition, its circles for philanthropy and Biblical study are useful, and helpful agencies are maintained in many of the larger cities, like Chicago, Cleveland, Denver and New York. This organization was represented at the International Women's Congress held in June in London.

The flag of Zionism continues to be unfurled by earnest advocates. The body of adherents is made up from among our Russian brethren. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested by them at the annual session of the Federation at Baltimore; and even opponents, who deplore the movement in the phase as outlined by Dr. Herzl, must acknowledge the warmth and devotion of the Zionists. The Colonial Bank secured its anticipated number of subscriptions. With the exception of a few leaders, like Prof. Gottheil and Rev. Stephen S. Wise, and sympathizers, like Rev. Drs. B. Felsenthal, G. Gottheil, M. Jastrow, H. P. Mendes, the movement has failed to influence American Jewish sentiment; and it will have to detach itself from the fantasy of a Judenstaat, and devote itself wholly to practical and practicable colonization, if it hopes to secure a larger following in this country.

The condition of the various Jewish orders has not changed for the better. The fact that the Cleveland Orphan Asylum and Montefiore Home have become incorporated as separate institutions, although they are supported by the B'nai B'rith and the Kesher Shel Barzel, respectively, is significant. The 50th anniversary of the Free Sons of Israel, like the 50th anniversary of the B'nai B'rith a few years ago, failed to produce any permanent enthusiasm. Still, these fraternities are large organizations; the I. O. B. B. in particular supports several useful institutions, and the problem of awakening more interest and strengthening the foundations is being carefully studied. There are those who maintain, in view of the steady decrease in membership in some districts, that the orders are on the decline, and should be disbanded. On the other hand, these symptoms are not regarded as serious by advocates of the I. O. B. B., who point to the spread of the order in Europe and the Orient, and are confident that in America it will more than regain its prestige.

SUMMARY OF THE YEAR

The marked increase in new institutions and enlargement of old ones were a feature of the year, and illustrate the growth both in numbers and benefactions. Philadelphia, always a pioneer in relief work, began work on the new building of the Young Women's Union and the Lucien Moss Home for Incurables. New York witnessed the opening of the new Baron de Hirsch Trade School and the Clara de Hirsch Working Girls' Home, while ground was broken for the new Mt. Sinai Hospital uptown and the Beth Israel Hospital down town, as well as for the new edifice of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, the gift of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff. The United Hebrew Charities dedicated its new home, the donation of Mr. Solomon Loeb. The Hebrew Infant Asylum of New York entered new quarters. The Mt. Zion Hospital of San Francisco and the new Hebrew Orphans' Home of Chicago were dedicated. The Newark Orphan Asylum made headway on its new building, and a site has been selected for the Emanu El Sisterhood Home of New York. The Touro Infirmary of New Orleans has had an annex provided, and the Atlanta Orphan Asylum opened a hospital ward. The need of more effective co-operation in benevolent work led to the conference of Jewish Charities in Cincinnati and the preliminary organization of a national society. New synagogues were dedicated in Denver, Brooklyn, Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, Atlantic City. The National Farm School at Doylestown, Pa., added appreciably to its accommodations, and revised its curriculum.

The death of Baroness de Hirsch aroused sympathetic tributes. In the necrology of the year are to be noted the names of Jacob Ezekiel, an earnest worker for the Union of American Hebrew Congregations; Jacob Baiz, of New York, Consul-General for Honduras; Dr. Sigismund Waterman, of New York, and Michael Schwab, with whom the original founders of the I. O. B. B. have passed away; and Mrs. Henrietta Heilprin, widow of Michael Heilprin, the author and philanthropist.

THE JEWS OF EUROPE

BY JOSEPH JACOBS

In attempting to give some account of the condition of the Jews in Europe during the year 5659, it should be premised that a somewhat false impression is liable to be produced by such a survey. Where the condition of Jews is favorable, there is little or nothing to say, so that what one has to report gives a rather sombre tinge to the whole picture, which is liable to be misleading. Let me say, then, at once that, taken as a whole, the year 5659 has shown a more favorable aspect than almost any recent year. There are plague spots, it is true, at Vienna, Paris, Bucharest, and Algiers, but the disease has not spread during the past year, and, except at Bucharest, has even taken a somewhat milder form. Isolated outbreaks and expressions of ill-will have occurred elsewhere, but, considering the huge activity of Anti-Semitism, we are surprised that they have not been more frequent. Inside the Jewish communities the one general movement that has attracted attention has been Zionism, which seems destined to divide the communities of this generation as the question of Reform did in the earlier years of the century. Whether its appearance is to be regarded as a favorable or a sinister sign in Jewish affairs, depends very much upon the individual standpoint, but even its opponents must recognize a certain idealistic trait in the movement, and enthusiasm for ideals can never be altogether bad. We might sum up the year 5659 in two words—Zionism and Dreyfus.

The year has seen the gradual collapse of the apology for a case against Captain Dreyfus, and at the moment there is every prospect of his being shortly released and of the iniquity of 1894 being to some extent redressed. The immediate cause of the change was the suicide of Colonel Henry, the arch-traitor in the original drama. After that confession of guilt, the claims for revision could not be denied even by the most prejudiced. The moment anything like fair investigation of the facts of the case was entered into, it was at once seen how flimsy was the charge. With its break-down, a severe blow was given to Anti-Semitism throughout Europe. It was the Anti-Semites who persisted in making Captain Dreyfus a typical Jew, in making his case a reason for regarding every Jew as a potential traitor; now they are reaping their due reward. To the surprise and to the growing admiration even of the French people, this typical traitor is turning out one of the most remarkable characters history has revealed. He has borne his martyrdom with the patience of a saint and the heroism of a soldier. The severest tortures of body and spirit have not soured him. He appears almost the only Dreyfusard who does not clamor for revenge. The Anti-Semites have chosen their type; the Jews might very well accept it.

Of the many exciting incidents that have characterized the various stages of the dénouement, it is impossible here to speak. The brave bid for justice by M. Brisson; the final attempt to discredit Colonel Picquart by imprisonment on a ridiculous charge; the successive changes of attitude of Mr. Facing-both-ways Dupuy; M. Quesnay de Beaurepaire, with his gossip about grog and the hoax played upon him by "M. Karl"; the desperate attempt to get the whole Cour de Cassation to re-revise the revision which its Criminal Chamber seemed inclined to grant, with its utter failure; the romantic voyage of the Sfax from the Île du Diable, and the hurried and dramatic landing of Captain Dreyfus at Quiberon; and the subsequent revelation of the tortures he had undergone in the preceding four years,—are doubtless fresh in every reader's memory, not alone among Jews, but throughout the civilized world, which has seen a most striking novel in action. History knows no parallel to this cause célèbre, which has divided a nation so profoundly, and effected so many changes in government and administration. One of the most marked of these changes has been the revulsion of feeling in Alsace, brought about by this portentous act of injustice against a typical Alsatian, and it is a characteristic incident that the Chief Rabbi of Alsace was borne to his grave with the highest honors of the Rhineland at the same moment that a final attempt was being made to withhold justice from Dreyfus. Never has the course of justice in history been so clear as in this memorable affaire.

The question of the immediate future scarcely affects us here, but one cannot but hope that the magnanimous attitude of Dreyfus himself will be imitated by those who have fought so bravely on his behalf. The cry for vengeance was never a Jewish cry, and would be most impolitic in the present instance. It would be as unwise as unjust to allow the Dreyfus case to be made the excuse for an attack upon Clericalism, or even Jesuitry, in France. The Jesuits may have made use of the affaire to increase their influence in the army; some of them may even have had something to do with the underhand methods by which Dreyfus was originally condemned and by which the revision was impeded so long; but that is no reason why Jews should allow themselves to be made a beating-stick for Jesuits or for the clergy in general.

From France to Algiers is a natural step, which, as regards the past year, may be said to be from the sublime to the ridiculous. The true aims of the braggadocio Max Régis and his followers have become apparent to the French Government, who soon put an end to his pranks when it was found that they meant Separatism. Unfortunately the effects of the stirring of the muddy waters of religious prejudice cannot be removed so easily. It will be some years before the unfortunate Jews of Algeria can resume their normal relations with their neighbors, and in the meantime many a family has been and will be ruined by the obstacles placed in the way of their earning their living, owing to religious prejudice.

It is, however, at Vienna that the most deleterious results may be seen of the Anti-Semitic agitation. The Municipal Council has continued to show its petty spite against Jews by such acts as excluding reporters of the best-known Viennese paper, the Neue Freie Presse, because it is edited by a Jew, while they have even imported Anti-Semitic feeling into such a seemingly innocuous topic as the supply of gas to Vienna. The separation of Jewish from Christian children in public schools has also been a sign of the relentless enmity of the Viennese municipality against the Jews, setting up a barrier against them—a sort of educational Ghetto—from their earliest years. Yet the influence of the mountebank Mayor, Dr. Lueger, has visibly diminished during the year, till at last we have seen him protected from the populace, whom he once roused against the Jews, by a guard of sixty mounted police. Here, too, time has brought about its revenges, but meanwhile the evil has been done, and the embit-terment of social relations between Jew and Christian has advanced to a deplorable extent. It is specially deplorable to find Anti-Semitism so rife among the students of the University of Vienna, a fact which implies that the governing classes of the future are being imbued with religious prejudice during their most impressionable years. It is characteristic that it is from Vienna that the comparatively new movement of political Zionism—which so many regard as a counsel of despair—has arisen.

On the other hand, it is satisfactory to observe that almost all signs of Anti-Semitic feeling have disappeared in Hungary, though in the neighboring provinces of the dual monarchy, Bohemia and Galicia, unfortunate riots have disturbed the relations of Jew and Christian during the past year. In regard to Galicia, it is possible that the movement against the Jews was of the nature of a Jacquerie, rather than a purely religious or racial one, since Jews form nearly half the class of small land-owners in that province. The conflict is the more disastrous since, quite apart from it, the social and economic condition of the pullulating masses of Jews in Galicia has worsened from year to year, till the Judenelend of Galicia has become a by-word.

Contrasted with the condition of the Jews in Lower Austria and Galicia, that of our Russian co-religionists for the first time shows some slight degree of amelioration. Whatever be the cause—whether it be the good-will of the Czar or the desire of his financial representatives to entice capital into the country—there has been a distinct—though perhaps only slight—indication of a more favorable attitude of the Russian Government towards its Jewish subjects. The decisions of the Senate throughout the year have been uniformly favorable to Jews, even to the extent of allowing a new agricultural colony, in direct opposition to the notorious "May Laws," while the restrictions on residents outside the Pale have been distinctly modified in favor of Jews. The facts, that a Jew has been admitted as a hereditary noble, and that a Jewish soldier received marked military honors at St. Petersburg, are also significant, if slight, signs of a more humane attitude on the part of the government. Possibly one of the reasons for this change may be found in the remarkable figures in the census of the Russian Empire, taken in 1897, but published only this year. From this it appears that, notwithstanding the enormous emigration of the last twenty years, the Jews of Russia number no less than 5,700,000. When it is remembered that they are concentrated in the Governments of Russia where slight beginnings are being made towards manufacturing industry, and that it is the whole policy of the government to develop manufactures, the significance of these figures becomes apparent. It is significant that the Hirsch trustees, the Jewish Colonization Association, have begun to assist Jewish artisans in Russia, with the consent of the Russian Government. Even with these more favorable signs the lot of the Russian Jew is sufficiently hard, but at any rate we can say that it is not at present being made harder by the Russian bureaucracy. Notwithstanding the isolated case of a riot at Nicolaieff, it may be said that the Russian people have never been against the Jews.

A different picture is presented by that annexe to Russia known as Roumania, where the government, in its attitude towards Jews, has betrayed more than Russian rigor; so much has this been the case that it might plausibly be argued that the position of the Jews is more unfavorable in Roumania than in Russia itself, for here the government has adopted the dastardly plan of striking at the educational system of the Roumanian Jews. By this means they create ill-will between the two creeds from the earliest years, while preventing Jewish youth from receiving the training which would make them good citizens. Of the 36,000 Jewish children of school age in Roumania, not more than 3,000 are allowed to attend the public elementary schools, and steps are being taken to diminish even this paltry number. It is of no avail that the Jews have contributed their quota of the taxes of blood and money which are exacted from all Roumanians of any creed; they are insidiously regarded as "aliens," and are unable to find a career for their talents and abilities.

It is to be regretted that one has to refer to some signs of Anti-Semitic feeling in the neighboring kingdom of Greece as an indirect result of the Cretan War, in which, it would appear, the Jews showed evidences of sympathy for Turkey, which has so uniformly treated them with humanity and tolerance. There has been some slight trouble in Larissa, and the Jews of Canea thought it desirable to leave when the Turks left the island.

There has fortunately been no indication of ill-will against the Jews in Turkey, but to leave Europe for a moment, one has to recognize that Turkey has been getting alarmed at the influx of Jews into Palestine—whether as a result of the Zionistic movement or not, it is somewhat hard to say. Certainly it is difficult for a Jew now to enter the Holy Land, and even French, English, and Italian Jews have had to appeal for protection to their consuls before being allowed to land at Jaffa. The visit of the German Emperor to Jerusalem has been interpreted in many ways by those who watch the meteoric career of that somewhat enigmatic character. One hears that he is decidedly in favor of the Zionistic movement, as likely, in his opinion, to increase the influence of Germany in the Holy Land.

With this reference to Zionism we may return to the career of Jews in the more fortunate countries where no Anti-Semitic feeling exists. In Germany it has died out, and even the attempt of Viennese agitators to revive it in Bavaria has proved unsuccessful. Holland and Italy, Switzerland and England, have all been in the proverbially happy position of countries which have no history. Having no outward attacks to bear, the Jews in these countries have mainly been occupied in dividing themselves on the problem of Zionism. It is somewhat difficult to determine how far the Zionistic idea has made progress in Europe during the past year. The second Basle Congress scarcely seemed to arouse so much enthusiasm as the first, which is perhaps natural. The movement has arrived at the difficult phase constituted by the creation of the Colonial Trust or Bank. This has been so far a success that the million and a quarter dollars needed as a minimum have been subscribed, and certainly, if the movement has a practical aim and basis, it has for some time to come the wherewithal to carry it out. This is the critical stage of political Zionism, and every one is awaiting the next step. Meanwhile, within the ranks of Zionism itself a certain amount of division appears to be taking place—some reverting to the old ideas of gradual colonization, while others keep their allegiance to the idée mère of the New Zionism—a guarantee from the Turkish suzerain for a legally constituted home in Palestine. What part the German Emperor is to play in obtaining a guarantee, or in securing it when obtained, lies hidden in the breast of the chief representative, Dr. Herzl, for this is in the main a one-man movement, which is at once the source of its weakness and its strength. It would be an almost unique event in Jewish history, if a single man can carry through a great national plan without secession or conflict.

In England the movement has been for the most part taken up by those who have recently experienced Russian and Roumanian tyranny. Very few of the historic nucleus of the English Jews have cast a favorable eye upon the new movement. The Chief Rabbi, in particular, has exercised all his eloquence and authority in combating it, and the chief Anglo-Jewish newspaper has been equally strong against Zionism. For the rest, there has been little stirring in communal matters in England. Rabbinical diplomas have for the first time been given to theological students trained solely in England, so that it may be anticipated that in a few years England will be able to supply its own rabbis. A tentative movement has been made towards Sunday services, which at present has not led to any active steps. The oft-threatened attempt to introduce an Alien Immigration Bill, to be based on the United States practice, has again been dropped by the government, and with the marked revival in trade very little is heard of the deleterious influence of the alien immigrant.

Abroad, apart from the events already referred to, one can observe signs of Jewish ability making its way to the front in various countries. One of the most characteristic of these is the fact that the late Mr. Gladstone was succeeded, in two of the foreign honors which he had gained by his brilliant gifts, by two Jews—Signor Luzzatti at the French Institute and Mr. T. C. Asser at the Brussels Academy, the latter taking also a very prominent place at the Hague Conference.

As regards European Jewish literature, it would be impossible to summarize, even roughly, the mass of publications pouring forth from the press on all sides of the manifold Jewish interests, but the production of the first volume of Professor Lazarus' Ethik des Judenthums deserves special mention, even in the most summary treatment; while the recent production of some further pages of the Hebrew original of Ecclesiasticus by Professor Schechter (who has during the year received the well-merited honor of the appointment as Professor of Hebrew in the University of London) is perhaps the most striking event in purely Hebrew literature. Mr. Zangwill has been comparatively silent during the year, at least on this side of the water; but Mr. Gordon, who follows to some extent in his footsteps, has added to his reputation by his "Daughters of Shem" and his "Lesser Destinies." One should not, perhaps, leave out of account that one of the most noteworthy books of last year in England was Mr. Sidney Lee's "Life of Shakespeare." It is indeed curious—having the "Merchant of Venice" in view—that among the most prominent Shakespearian scholars of the day are Mr. Sidney Lee and Mr. Israel Gollancz.

While in other respects our report of the year 5659 is on the whole favorable, there is one point in which it has been of darker hue than almost any recent year. European Judaism has lost during the year a more than usually large proportion of eminent and memorable figures. Chief Rabbi Tal, of Holland, and Chief Rabbi Weill, of Strasburg, were perhaps more eminent for their position than for their influence on contemporary Judaism. Dr. E. Hildesheimer was a force throughout European Jewry which has been consistently exercised in favor of orthodoxy for very many years. Rabbi Wohlgemuth was perhaps not so commanding a figure, but his influence was exercised in the centre of Russian Jewry. Jewish philanthropy has suffered severe losses during the past year; prominent among them is that of Baroness de Hirsch, who carried out so worthily her husband's magnificent plans for the amelioration of the race. Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild was conspicuous as a Mæcenas, and his magnificent collections will henceforth become the permanent possession of the British nation. Germany, as well as German Judaism, has seen two predominant figures in the political sphere removed by death during the year. Dr. Ludwig Bamberger was for many years one of the directing minds of German Liberalism, while Dr. Martin E. von Simson was little less than one of the founders of the German Empire, so prominent a position did he take in its early years. These two men alone would be sufficient to disprove the Anti-Semitic outcry that Jews cannot be patriots, and cannot devote their whole energies to the welfare of the nation. Another example is afforded by the late Madame Coralie Cahen, the French Florence Nightingale, a Jewish Sister of Mercy, whose efforts in the Franco-Prussian War were recognized by the rare decoration of the Legion of Honor. She and Madame Furtado-Heine were recently the only two women holding the Grand Cross, and now both are gone. It is curious that the year which has seen the Court of Cassation so much discussed has also seen the death of a former Jewish President of it, M. G. E. Bédarrides. The eminence of Jews in the drama has been sadly exemplified by the death of Adolphe

Dennery, one of the most popular French dramatic authors. In the world of thought, the death of Professor H. Steinthal has removed one of the foremost thinkers of the day; with Professor Lazarus he was the founder of the study of Völkerpsychologie, while his works on the Origin of Language and on Ethics are classic productions. A remarkable figure has dropped out of the ranks of French Judaism in Alexandre Weill, one of the most brilliant journalists of the French capital and one of the last surviving members of the Heine set. Signor David Levi, of Turin, was a poet of some power, and devoted his gifts to Jewish themes; while David Henriques de Castro, of Amsterdam, was an antiquary of great gifts, who pursued researches in the history of the aristocratic community of which he was one of the last representatives. It is somewhat rare that a bookseller, as such, should demand notice in a European survey like this, but the late Fischl Hirsch has done as much as any one towards that revival of New-Hebrew studies which has been so characteristic a movement of the century now passing away. Scarcely a library of Europe was not indebted to him for some of its most precious manuscript treasures.[1]

The losses of the year have been many and great, yet everywhere one sees Jews of ability coming to the fore to replace them both in the national and in the communal life. At first view, a survey of Jewish affairs produces a feeling of depression. The century opened with the highest hopes of emancipation in all directions: it appears to be closing with attempts at taking back the rights slowly won from the sense of justice of the nations. There is a reaction, it is true, but already we can discern the turn of the tide. The defection of France from the great cause of Liberty has been, indeed, a severe blow, but France herself is coming round to juster views, and many years must elapse before Frenchmen will forget the impasse they have been led into through the wiles of the Anti-Semites. It will take something more than demonstrations concocted by M. Paulus at four francs per head to induce Frenchmen to embark once more upon the troubled waters of Anti-Semitism. The Viennese have not yet awakened from their Anti-Semitic nightmare, and Vienna is perhaps the most dangerous spot in Europe, from a Jewish standpoint; but elsewhere in Europe men are awakening from their dreams, and are beginning to recognize that in all unsectarian action they can once more clasp hands with their Jewish fellow-citizens, and act in unison with them for the welfare of their fatherland. Russia is still in the seventeenth century, not alone in regard to Jews, but in regard to all dissenters and all ideals of modern progress. It is impossible, however, that the state of affairs can last long, now that she has entered upon new lines of economic development, and when once this is done, the useful place which Jews can take in the modern manufacturing community will ultimately have to be recognized, even by Russia herself. When once Russia enters upon the path of justice, Roumania cannot but follow, and cadit quaestio Judaica. Meanwhile the very attacks upon Jews and Judaism have aroused some of the noblest sides of the Jewish nature: persistent patience under persecution, fellow-feeling with the oppressed, clinging with fervor even to the national ideals of the persecutors.

[1] To this list must now be added the name of Professor David Kaufmann of Buda-Pesth, one of the most active and able of contemporary Jewish scholars, whose death at the early age of forty-seven is a severe blow to Jewish science. [ED.]

In this regard, as in so many others, Dreyfus has been the typical figure: after all he has suffered, he seems anxious to devote himself only to the highest interests of the nation that has treated him so ill.

The second annual conference of the American Federation of Zionists met in Baltimore, June 18 and 19, 1899. The address of welcome was delivered by Dr. S. Schaffer, president of the Baltimore Zion Society. Professor Richard Gottheil, the president, delivered an annual address, reviewing the condition of the Jews, especially in Galicia, and the progress of Zionism in America and Europe, and explaining the purpose and scope of the Jewish Colonial Trust. The reports of the secretary and the treasurer were presented. The Honorary Secretary, Stephen S. Wise, reported upon the work of the Federation during 1898-99, its publications, the increase in the number of federated organizations, the founding of a company in New York for the sale of Palestinian wine, and the necessity for a Zionist organ.

The publications of the Federation are:

The Aims of Zionism, by Professor Richard Gottheil.

The Progress of Zionism, by Herbert Bentwich, LL. B.

George Eliot as a Zionist.

The sum of $50 was appropriated for the publication and free distribution of the proceedings of the Conference in English, Hebrew and Yiddish.

A like sum was appropriated for the alleviation of the suffering of the Jewish miners and their families in Boryslaw, Galicia.

In response to an appeal by Herbert Bentwich, of London, the sum of $100 was contributed as the nucleus of a fund to be secured through general appeal to the public and a special appeal to the federated societies to give at least $10 each, this fund to be devoted to the purchase of the sites in Modin, Palestine, for the purpose of erecting a Maccabean memorial in the form of an agricultural college and settlement, such project to be undertaken in conjunction with the English Zionist Federation, with the consent of the Vienna Executive Committee, and to be known as the Anglo-American Zionist Maccabean Memorial.

At a public meeting addresses were delivered by Dr. G. Gottheil, of New York; Dr. L. Zinsler, of New York; Leah Asher, of Worcester, Mass.; Mr. L. Zolotkoff, of Chicago; and Mr. Max Raisin, of Cincinnati.

Synopsis of the Work

The work of the Baron de Hirsch Fund of America may be treated of under the following headings:

I. Reception of immigrants.
II. English education.
III. Mechanical education.
IV. Productive work of the Baron de Hirsch Fund in its agricultural and industrial department, with its leading educational feature, the Woodbine Agricultural and Industrial School.

[1] In view of the recent organization of most Zionist Societies, it was next to impossible to reach, by means of directories and other similar agencies, such as have not affiliated with the general and local federations.

[2] The account of the Baron de Hirsch Fund activities here given, though not official, is authentic.

In the last two departments, the Jewish Colonization Association has latterly enabled the Baron de Hirsch Fund to carry out its programme effectively, as appears from the last report of the Colonization Association, presented by its President, M. Narcisse Leven, at the statutory meeting of shareholders in Paris, May 21, 1899, from which the account given below is quoted.

I. RECEPTION OF IMMIGRANTS.—Upon the arrival of immigrants at United States ports an agent sees to it that they reach their destinations, provided they have determined to leave the city; if not, as many as possible are sent out of town to places where employment has previously been found for them. The policy is to scatter them throughout the country, so that they will not congest in large cities. Whenever necessary, their expenses to their new homes are paid, and they are supported en route. Those who remain in New York, and need advice and assistance, are directed to the Labor Bureau of the United Hebrew Charities, supported in part by the fund, and employment is found for them when possible. If absolutely necessary, support is given to immigrants for a short time, until they are able to earn a living. Occasionally they are established in trades, and in extreme cases temporary relief is afforded to families. Not more than five per cent. of the number thus assisted has made application for additional help.

II. ENGLISH EDUCATION.—Immediately upon arrival the immigrant children are taught English in large, well-ventilated classrooms, by college graduates, who prepare them to enter the public schools. As they are taught according to the method employed in the public schools, and are noted for their rapid advance and exact attainments, they are welcomed with eagerness by the principals. There are now about 400 children in the day classes.

There are also evening classes, composed of 400 workingmen and women, most of whom come to their classes direct from the workshop.

In some cases of students of Russian or Roumanian birth who have entered colleges, and have made creditable progress, loans are advanced to enable them to complete their studies and be graduated.

III. MECHANICAL EDUCATION.—In 1890 the Baron de Hirsch Trade School was established in a building rented for the purpose at 225-227 East Ninth Street, in New York, wherein two classes have been graduated each year since.

On January 1, 1899, through the munificence of the late Baroness de Hirsch-Gereuth, a new building, constructed upon the most modern principles, was opened. A class of fifty-five young men, whose work and demeanor indicate the best results, has been graduated.

The trades are carpentry, plumbing, house, sign and fresco painting, and machine work; English is taught to those who are deficient; also drawing and the technical branch of each trade. There are two school terms a year, of five and a half months each. No pretence is made of turning out finished mechanics; sufficient is taught, however, to enable the graduates to become "helpers" in their respective vocations, and in most cases good positions are obtained immediately upon leaving the school. The graduates earn from $7 to $15 a week, and in proportion as their experience enables them to do better work, their compensation is increased, some of them receiving now $22.50 a week. Each graduate is given the tools of his trade. Tuition is free.

Though the school is open to any Jewish boy, preference is given to natives of Russia or Roumania.

The point of view is, that essential though it be that a boy learn a trade, it is important that his earning powers be developed as quickly as possible. Anything that helps to train his mind and hand, and promotes rapid progress, is desirable. On these thoroughly practical lines the school is conducted. On the other hand, the idea is constantly kept before the pupils, that when they become skilled mechanics they are entitled to the wages of skilled mechanics. Thus the Trade School, by exciting the ambition to excel in the minds of the pupils, tends to reduce the danger of close competition in other directions.

The aim of the school, then, is to reach the three following results:

1. To teach a boy as quickly as possible the fundamental principles of some trade, together with as much arithmetic and mechanical drawing as is indispensable in a given line of work.

2. To teach him to do well what is required of the class of help whose place he is fitted by age and attainments to fill.

3. To teach him unquestioning obedience.

To accomplish these results he is placed under the care of a skilled mechanic, who has no more pupils than he can faithfully teach, for five months and a half, eight hours a day, five days in the week, holidays excepted. A longer period would be more desirable, but it would entail a sacrifice of time, which would be difficult for pupils to bear, as no support whatever is allowed them by the fund.

IV. Productive Work of the Baron de Hirsch Fund.—The Agricultural and Industrial Department of the Baron de Hirsch Fund was organized as an agency to promote the economical interests of Russo-Jewish immigrants:

1. To advise them properly in the acquisition of homesteads in rural districts all over the country.

2. To grant them loans, towards the purchase of farms, livestock and implements, in proportion to their own funds and their ability as farmers.

3. To transfer industries and those employed in them from crowded cities to agricultural districts, with a view to benefiting the wage-earners in health and comfort and at the same time creating consumers of farm products at the place of their production.

The success of the Baron de Hirsch Fund in this department has been marked. It enjoys the full confidence of immigrants intending to purchase farms as well as of owners of farm lands willing to sell. By both it is looked upon as a trustworthy bureau of agricultural and industrial information.

In the purchase of farms for an immigrant, various points are taken into consideration: his means, his ability as a farmer, the location of the homestead, the facilities it offers for cattle-breeding, its distance from a market or a creamery, etc. Each one of these is a factor determining the purchase price.

At present many favorable opportunities present themselves. Established dairy farms are offered for sale in New England at a price less than the cost of the buildings upon them. Their abandonment is due to the death or old age of their owners, whose children, attracted to the cities and to professional occupations, are willing to sell their ancestral homesteads at a great sacrifice.

Jewish immigrants coming from the villages of the Pale of Settlement in Russia are ready buyers of dairy farms, because they were accustomed to dairy pursuits in their old home. Many of them kept a smaller or larger number of dairy cattle, and raised feed for them, on leased land. On the other hand, few are skilled gardeners, and therefore they are not successful at other kinds of farming in this country.

The activity of the Baron de Hirsch Fund in its capacity as an agricultural agent, offering liberal loans, furnishing accurate information, and advising with a view to conditions and circumstances, has had the following result:

The settlement of 600 Jewish farmers on as many homesteads in New England.

The settlement of 400 families in New Jersey.

In New England the farming interests of Jewish immigrants are indicated by the following figures:

1. Investment of the immigrants, $1,100,000.

2. Loans upon mortgages other than those held by the Baron de Hirsch Fund, $1,250,000.

The loans and advances made by the Baron de Hirsch Fund have substantially helped to make these investments safe and productive.

The Jewish capital invested in farming enterprises in New Jersey and other parts of the country is represented by even larger figures. Moreover, it is constantly increasing, in proportion to the spread of industrial activity in agricultural districts. As the limited means of the immigrants forbid the purchase of homesteads near large towns, which offer ready markets for farm products, the Baron de Hirsch Fund aims to remove to the more distant places in which they must settle, the industries, such as the tailoring trades, in which many of the immigrants are employed. This policy at the same time relieves the so-called Ghettos from the congestion at present endangering the social and sanitary condition of our large cities.

New York alone contains 65,000 operatives who are engaged in tailoring, in the " sweat-shops," to support their families, that is, 200,000 persons, constituting a majority of the Jewish population. In other words, the tailoring trade keeps the East Side solidly Jewish, and attracts constantly new-comers from abroad and from the interior. The Baron de Hirsch Fund holds out every encouragement to these wage-earners to remove to country districts: factories with modern improvements; comfortable homes, rented and sold on liberal terms; educational facilities, especially in the direction of trades and agriculture; and the opportunity to live in a Jewish community.

The Woodbine Agricultural and Industrial School, the leading educational feature of this department of the Baron de Hirsch Fund work, was opened in October, 1894, with 15 pupils. Its aim is to train up practical, intelligent farmers, able to act as assistants to other farmers or prepared to work farms of their own. Applicants for admission must be at least 14 years of age, and be prepared to pass an examination equivalent to that of the third grade in the public schools of Cape May County. Tuition is free to all regular students, and board and lodging may be had at the dormitory at actual cost, but students whose parents are unable to support them while at school are boarded and lodged free of charge. These students are, however, expected to offset such expenses by labor on the School Farm. There are now 69 pupils at the school, taught by 7 instructors, one of them a graduate of the school. The course extends over three years, and the studies are divided into theoretical and practical. The studies pursued by the boys are as follows: (1) English, (2) arithmetic, (3) drawing, (4) history, (5) geography, (6) chemistry, (7) physics, (8) bookkeeping and correspondence, (9) botany, (10) experimental chemistry, (11) mathematics, (12) geometrical drawing, (13) soils and crops, (14) manures and fertilizers, (15) land measuring, (16) zoölogy, (17) entomology, (18) collecting of plants, (19) feeds, (20) comparative anatomy and physiology, (21) domestic animals (selection, care, etc.), (22) horticulture, (23) floriculture, (24) landscape gardening, (25) market gardening, (26) meteorology, (27) relation of forestry to agriculture, (28) dairying, (29) farm implements and machinery.

The studies for girls substitute chemistry of foods, hygiene and nursing, household economics, household sanitation, foods and preserves, foods in detail, for Nos. 10, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 25 and 29.

The practical work of the boys consists of care of stables, poultry yards, domestic animals, milking, and shop and field work; planting, care of crops, harvesting, work in greenhouses, cold frames, hot beds, in orchards and the blacksmith shop; care of small fruit, floriculture, and work on the nursery grounds and in the wheelwright shop.

The girls throughout the course have practical work in sewing, cooking, care of the poultry, dairy, etc., and are employed in doing the household work of the dormitory and in practical housekeeping.

The School Farms contain 240 acres, of which 30 acres are in orchards, 20 acres in berries, 6 acres in grapes, and the remainder is suitable for corn, truck and field crops in general; besides some land is in bushes and some in woods.

The buildings are: one school-house, 4 poultry houses, a barn, sheds, corn cribs, 2 greenhouses, cold frames, a boiler house, a windmill, and a storage room.

The school is provided with a small chemical laboratory, physical apparatus, Babcock's test and a library of reference books.

The school owns 5 horses, some cows, and 200 fowls.

The dormitory can accommodate 100 pupils.

Religious services are held daily; the Sabbath is devoted to divine worship, religious instruction, and rest.

Woodbine, founded in 1891, now contains 1000 inhabitants, employed in 4 factories or on their farms. There are two public schools, a kindergarten, five stores, a bakery, two educational clubs, three fraternal societies, a public bath-house, an evening school, a religious school, a synagogue, and a hall.

The Jewish Colonization Association

Since 1896 the Baron de Hirsch Fund has had the support of the Jewish Colonization Association, and has co-operated with it in the United States. As a result, the capacity of the Trade School has been doubled; the agricultural work, especially at the Woodbine School, has been broadened in scope and effectiveness; the American Committee has been furnished with additional means to transplant the industrial population from the great centers to the rural districts; isolated farmers in New England have been helped with loans to free their land from mortgages, so that at present more than "600 Jewish farmers are living in New England on their own land, which they themselves cultivate with the help of their families. . . . The farms are fully developed, and the farmers have commenced conscientiously to pay their debts."

The Jewish Colonization Association has also given effective support to the older colonies in South Jersey, Alliance, Carmel and Rosenhayn. The following is the report of the Association on this phase of its work:

These colonies, founded in 1882, at the time of the great exodus of Jews from Russia, have always led a precarious existence; they had not the means to support themselves, and lacked an outlet for their produce. Benevolent societies from time to time gave them assistance which enabled them to live from day to day, but without ever affording them the means to strengthen their position and assure their future. Thus, of the 300 families which these colonies comprised at their foundation there only remained 200 in 1893, and 76 at the end of 1896; all the others had returned to their miserable life in the towns. Those families who did not abandon the colonies were in a very difficult position; having contracted onerous debts, and being unable to pay the interest, they were every day threatened with being evicted and sold up.

This critical situation compelled the colonists to apply to our Association in 1897. Inquiries made on the spot soon proved that neither lack of will nor the incapacity of the colonists was the cause of this state of things, but the absence of a market where they could sell their produce, which consisted especially of potatoes and other vegetables, fruit and poultry. The nearest town, Vineland, which contains 3500 inhabitants, is in fact peopled by old farmers, who themselves produce the necessary fruit and vegetables for their own consumption. It was thus not enough to free the colonists from their debts; it was also necessary to create a market for the sale of their produce.

This double object has been achieved; our Association has granted loans to the most deserving colonists, which have enabled them to pay off their creditors. It has, besides, made loans to artisans for the establishment of factories in the center or in the neighborhood of these colonies on condition that they should employ the families of workmen on the spot, or those who were removed from New York or Philadelphia.

A new existence has thus been assured to these colonies; eight artisans have settled there; they pay weekly wages of 7500 francs to more than 250 families who have come from the centers of which we have spoken. These families occupy the houses previously abandoned by the colonists and constitute the market which was wanting. A new factory is on the eve of being established in Alliance Colony; it will permit of 40 additional families, comprising 200 persons, leaving the large cities; a hundred of them will find employment in the factory, which will likewise give work to a hundred other artisans selected from the families who are already located in the colony, and who will receive a minimum weekly wage of 2500 francs.

It is estimated that the workmen in the three colonies will annually receive more than half a million, a third of which will certainly revert to the colonists.

In South Jersey our Association has also come to the assistance of twenty-five Jewish farmers established in the neighborhood of these three colonies on isolated farms. Their position very much resembled that of the colonists of whom we have just spoken. Nineteen of them, the most deserving, have received advances, and all are profiting by the markets established in the colonies.

The three colonies, Alliance, Carmel and Rosenhayn, and the twenty-five Jewish farmers in South Jersey have been placed in a position to keep themselves; they have already paid the first instalment of the debt which they contracted towards our Association.

The number of Jewish families in this region, to whose assistance we have come, directly or otherwise, is about 600, viz.: 76 families of colonists, 25 farmers, 250 workmen from New York and the artisan population already settled in the colonies, which may be estimated at 250 families.

CENTRAL CONFERENCE OF AMERICAN RABBIS

Founded, Detroit, Mich, July, 1889.

Officers: President, Isaac M. Wise, Cincinnati, O.; First Vice-President, Joseph Silverman, New York City; Second Vice-President, A. Moses, Louisville, Ky.; Treasurer, S. Hecht, Milwaukee, Wis.; Recording Secretary, L. Grossmann, Cincinnati, O.; Corresponding Secretary, G. Deutsch, Cincinnati, O.

Executive Committee: In addition to the above officers, M. Mielziner, Cincinnati, O.; David Philipson, Cincinnati, O.; T. Schanfarber, Mobile, Ala.; Joseph Stolz, Chicago, Ill.; H. Veld, Newburgh, N. Y.

Trustees of Superannuated Minister's Fund: Isaac M. Wise, M. Mielziner, L. Grossmann.

Members, 3 honorary, 133 regular.

Annual income, $665.

Board meeting first Monday of the month.

Organization meets annually, second week in July, at the place selected by the previous conference.

Objects: To establish and maintain good fellowship among the Rabbis; to teach one another and to learn of each other; to encourage research and literary work, especially in history and literature of Judaism; to discuss the religious and ecclesiastical problems of the day, and furnish a formulated opinion on problems under consideration.

Publications of the Conference:

1. Nine volumes of the Year Book of the Conference, containing all proceedings of the body, with all the papers read, addresses, lectures and sermons delivered in the Conference.
2. Judaism at the World's Parliament of Religions (in Chicago, 1893).
3. The Union Prayer Book, two volumes; and Union Hymnal, one volume.
4. One volume of Sermons.
5. Various pamphlets.

The Conference held its annual meeting for the year at Cincinnati, beginning March 13, 1899, to celebrate the 80th birthday of its founder and president, Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Wise, which took place Nisan 3, March 14. 58 members were in attendance. Dr. David Philipson delivered the address of welcome, and Dr. Joseph Silverman responded. The President gave his annual address. About 100 congratulatory messages were received.

The ceremonies in honor of Dr. Wise included addresses of members of the Conference, an address on behalf of the Methodist ministers of Cincinnati, a luncheon, and numerous presentations.

The Conference has assets amounting to $5595.74, of which $3100.46 is a fund for superannuated ministers. The report of the Committee on Publication showed that 1000 copies of the evening service of the Union Prayer Book had been distributed among soldiers in Cuba and in the various camps during the Spanish-American War. 12 copies of the week-day service were sent to Camp Sheridan and 75 volumes to Jewish soldiers at Camp Lexington. 133 Congregations now use the prayer-book, and 37,692 copies have been sold.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in July, 1900.

A commission was appointed to report (a) upon the ethical principles which should govern both the congregation and the minister in their relations to one another; (b) upon the ethics of a contract between a congregation and its Rabbi; (c) upon the ethics of applying and competing for positions.

The Conference continued its Committee on Cyclopedia with authority to enter into correspondence with Funk & Wagnalls with reference to their proposed cyclopedia. Resolutions of respect to the memory of Professor H. Steinthal were adopted.

A full report of the proceedings is contained in the Year Book of the Conference for 1899. In addition to congratulatory addresses, the following papers read are printed in the Appendix: The Rabbi and the Charities, by Rabbi Edward N. Calisch, Richmond, Va.; How can we enlist our Young Men in the Service of the Congregation, by Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, D. D., Philadelphia; Why I am not a Zionist, by Rev. Henry Berkowitz, D. D., Philadelphia; Address on Zionism, by Rev. Dr. S. Sale, St. Louis; The Justification of Zionism, by Professor C. Levias, Hebrew Union College; Modern Thought Tendencies in Judaism, by Rabbi Adolph Guttmacher, Baltimore; The Holiness of a Peculiar People, by Rabbi Israel Aaron, D. D., Buffalo.

Organization meets triennially; last meeting, November, 1896, in New York.

Objects: The study of Jewish history and literature; the study and practice of the newest and best methods of philanthropy, and work in the religious schools.

This work is done under the direction of four national committees: on Religion, on Philanthropy, on Religious School Work, the Reciprocity Committee. Programmes are published triennially containing the reports of these committees, outlining work for the Sections, giving topics for papers and study and bibliographical lists.

During 1898-99, 75 study circles met, varying in attendance from 5 to 200. 40 women were placed on Religious School boards. 79 lecturers appeared before the Sections of the Council. 9 Mission Schools were established.

19 Sections raised $5773 for 3 kindergartens; 9 mission schools; 15 industrial sewing schools; 1 day nursery; 1 night school; 2 working girls' clubs; 1 milk and ice depot; classes in domestic economy; work among prisoners; vacation schools; boys' and girls' clubs.

$12,000 in cash and supplies was raised by 37 Sections for the relief and comfort of soldiers and sailors during the Spanish-American War.

HEBREW SABBATH SCHOOL UNION OF AMERICA

Seat of Executive Committee in Cincinnati.

Founded July 29, 1886.

Officers: President, Rev. Dr. David Philipson, 852 Lincoln Avenue, Cincinnati, O.; Vice-President, Prof. M. Mielziner, Cincinnati, O.; Treasurer, Mr. William Goodheart, Cincinnati, O.; Secretary, Rabbi Charles S. Levi, Peoria, Ill.

Board of Directors: Dr. Henry Berkowitz, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dr. K. Kohler, New York, N. Y.; Dr. Joseph Silverman, New York, N. Y.; Dr. L. Grossman, Cincinnati, O.; Dr. S. Hecht, Milwaukee, Wis.; Rabbi I. S. Moses, Chicago, Ill.; Rabbi Max Heller, New Orleans, La.; Dr. Joseph Stolz, Chicago, Ill.; Rabbi Wm. Rosenau, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. M. Landsberg, Rochester, N. Calisch, Richmond, Va.

Members, about 75 schools.

Organization meets biennially, third week in January.

The object of this Union is to provide a uniform system for all Jewish Sabbath Schools in the United States by promulgating a uniform course of instruction and by training competent teachers.

The Union has introduced the leaflet system with great success, the leaflets being used in about 100 schools, and has gathered statistics of the Sabbath Schools.

The publications of the Union are:

The Ethics of the Hebrew Scriptures, by Adolph and I. S. Moses.

The Proverbs, by Adolph and I. S. Moses.

Selections from the Book of Psalms, by Dr. M. Mielziner.

Guide for Jewish Sabbath School Teachers.

Two Series of Leaflets on Biblical History.

Leaflets on Religion.

THE JEWISH CHAUTAUQUA SOCIETY

NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF JEWISH CHARITIES

Representatives of various Jewish Relief Associations in the United States met in Cincinnati on May 19, 1899, in pursuance of a call issued by the United Jewish Charities of Cincinnati. Mr. B. Bettman, president of that organization, called the meeting to order. Mr. I. S. Isaacs, of New York, was elected President of the Conference; Mr. Martin Butzel, of Detroit, Vice-President, and Miss Hannah Marks, Secretary.

Mr. I. S. Isaacs presented a paper on "Transients Relief," after which a committee was appointed to formulate regulations for the transportation of transients. It was decided to organize a permanent national conference. Mrs. E. Pisko presented a paper on the "Denver Hospital for Jewish Consumptives"; Rev. M. Goldstein spoke on "Family Desertions."

The Committee on Organization then presented the following report:

"The delegates to the Conference of the Societies of Jewish Charities do hereby form an organization to be known as the National Conference of Jewish Charities; the object of this organization is to more closely cement the various Jewish relief organizations of the United States, to provide, as far as possible, uniformity of action and co-operation between them and to unite in improving the methods of dispensing charity; without interfering, in any manner, with the autonomy of the various organizations.

"The following shall constitute the provisional officers:

"President, Max Senior, of Cincinnati; First Vice-President, Isaac E. Isaacs, of New York; Second Vice-President, Mrs. E. Pisko, of Denver; Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Hannah Marks, of Cincinnati; Executive Committee of five, Max Herzberg, of Philadelphia; I. L. Leucht, of New Orleans; M. Pels, of Baltimore; Julian W. Mack, of Chicago; A. J. Messing, of St. Louis.

"This organization shall go into effect upon the acceptance of this plan of organization by societies representing at least 10 cities of not less than 100,000 inhabitants each.

"All cities having an organized Jewish relief association are eligible and invited to membership.

"The provisional Officers and Executive Committee are hereby empowered to prepare a constitution and by-laws, and to carry into effect the resolutions adopted at the Conference held May 19-21, 1899, and to call such meetings at such times and places as they may deem necessary."

THE ORTHODOX JEWISH CONGREGATIONAL UNION OF AMERICA

A convention of Orthodox Congregations met in New York, Wednesday, June 8, 1898. Lewis N. Dembitz, Esq., was called to the chair, and Mr. D. Levine acted as secretary; fifty Congregations were represented. The following provisional officers were elected: President, Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes; Vice-Presidents, Dr. P. Klein, Rev. Meldola de Sola, Rev. Dr. H. W. Schneeberger, Mr. K. H. Sarasohn; Secretaries, for English, Max Cohen, for Hebrew, I. Buchhalter.

A resolution favoring Zionism was adopted.

A resolution was passed making the Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America an established society.

The principles of the convention adopted are as follows:

"This Conference of delegates from Jewish congregations in the United States and the Dominion of Canada is convened to advance the interests of positive Biblical, Rabbinical and Historical Judaism.

"We are assembled not as a synod, and, therefore, we have no legislative authority to amend religious questions, but as a representative body, which by organization and co-operation will endeavor to advance the interests of Judaism in America.

"We favor the convening of a Jewish Synod specifically authorized by congregations to meet, to be composed of men who must be certified Rabbis, and

a) Elders in official position (Cf. Numbers xi. 16);
b) Men of wisdom and understanding, and known amongst us (Cf. Deut. i. 13);
c) Able men, God-fearing men, men of truth, hating profit (Cf. Exodus xviii. 21).

"We believe in the Divine revelation of the Bible, and we declare that the prophets in no way discountenanced ceremonial duty, but only condemned the personal life of those who observed ceremonial law, but disregarded the moral. Ceremonial law is not optative; it is obligatory.

"We affirm our adherence to the acknowledged codes of our Rabbis and the thirteen principles of Maimonides.

"We believe that in our dispersion we are to be united with our brethren of alien faith in all that devolves upon men as citizens; but that religiously, in rites, ceremonies, ideals and doctrines, we are separate, and must remain separate in accordance with the Divine declaration: 'I have separated you from the nations to be Mine.' (Lev. xx. 26.)

"And further, to prevent misunderstanding concerning Judaism, we reaffirm our belief in the coming of a personal Messiah and we protest against the admission of proselytes into the fold of Judaism without millah and tebilah.

"We protest against intermarriage between Jew and Gentile we protest against the idea that we are merely a religious sect and maintain that we are a nation, though temporarily without a national home, and

"Furthermore, that the restoration to Zion is the legitimate aspiration of scattered Israel, in no way conflicting with our loyalty to the land in which we dwell or may dwell at any time.'

The following are extracts from the Constitution:

The organization shall be known as the Orthodox Jewish Congregational Union of America.

The objects of this organization shall be the promotion of the religious interests of the Jews in America, and the maintenance of the welfare of Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America.

All Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America shall be eligible to membership and entitled to representation in the meetings of the Union, on application for membership to the executive committee.

All questions of Orthodoxy in connection with the admission of members shall be conclusively acted upon by a sub-committee of five rabbis, to be appointed by the executive committee; said rabbis to be members of the conference.

The Union shall hold a regular annual meeting at such time and place as shall be designated by the preceding meeting Special meetings of the Union may be called at any other time and place on the call of the executive committee, on the written request of at least ten congregations of the Union.

Each congregation affiliated with the Union shall pay as annual dues, in the following manner: congregations having fifty members or under, $5; congregations having over fifty members, $10.

This constitution may be amended by a vote of two-thirds of the delegates present at two successive meetings of the Union.

Addresses were delivered by Lewis N. Dembitz, Esq.; Dr. Schaffer, of Baltimore; Rev. Meldola de Sola, of Montreal; Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, of New York; and Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Hertz (now of Johannesburg, South Africa).

The conference organized itself permanently by the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the representatives of the Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America, assembled in conference in the city of New York, this 18th day of Sivan, in the year 5658, hereby express their sense of the need of the formation and maintenance of a permanent organization of the Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America to promote the religious interests of the Jews in America and to further the welfare of the Orthodox Congregations in America, and said representatives hereby agree to organize and do organize, the Orthodox Jewish Congregational Union of America; to formulate and adopt a constitution for the government of said Union; and to elect the officers to be provided for by said constitution.

And to adopt as the religious principles of the Orthodox Jewish Congregational Union of America, the declaration of principles adopted by the Conference on the 18th day of Sivan, 5658, and the said principles shall never be changed as long as three congregations shall adhere to them.

Permanent officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. H. Pereira Mendes; First Vice-President, L. N. Dembitz, Esq., of Louisville, Ky.; Second Vice-President, S. Solis Cohen, M. D., of Philadelphia; Third Vice-President, Dr. A. Friedenwald, M. D., of Baltimore; Fourth Vice-President, K. H. Sarasohn, of New York City; Treasurer, Jacob Hecht, of New York City; Secretaries, Rev. Dr. Drachman and Max Cohen; Trustees: Rev. Dr. Mendes, Rev. Dr. Klein, Rev. Dr. De Sola, Rev. Dr. Schaffer, Rabbi Bachrach, Rev. Dr. Drachman, Rev. Dr. J. H. Hertz, Rev. Dr. Schneeberger, L. N. Dembitz, Dr. A. Friedenwald, S. M. Roeder, Joseph Blumenthal, Dr. Cyrus Adler, Dr. S. Solis Cohen, K. H. Sarasohn, Jacob Hecht, L. Napoleon Levy, J. Silverman, Max Cohen, Isaac Lass and Max Deutschman.

These resolutions were adopted:

That in all towns where the number of congregations warrants, a local Union be formed, each congregation to be represented by the rabbi or minister, the president and one other lay delegate. The said local Union shall organize as they deem best.

The objects of the said local Union shall be:

1st. To strengthen congregational life but not to interfere in congregational autonomy.

2d. To advance the interests of the local Judaism by the appointment of any of the following committees or others as may be deemed necessary:

Congregational membership; civil legislation; committee on Jewish presentations; city religious work (mission, circuit preaching); committee appointed to devise uniform methods in Hebrew and religious schools; Union to send out rabbis for propaganda under the direction of the Executive Committee.

Members: 90 Congregations, comprising 8418 contributing members.

Annual income, $25,000.

Board meeting June and December.

Organization meets third Tuesday in January biennially; next meeting, 1901.

Objects: A.—To establish and maintain institutions for instruction in the higher branches of Hebrew literature and Jewish theology, with the necessary preparatory schools in such cities as may hereafter be designated.

B.—To establish relations with kindred organizations in other parts of the world, for the relief of the Jews from political oppression, and for rendering them such aid for their intellectual elevation as may be within reach of this Union.

C.—To promote the religious instruction of the young by the training of competent teachers, and generally encourage the study of the Scriptures and of the tenets and history of Judaism.

All this, however, without interfering in any manner whatsoever with the worship, the schools, or any other of the congregational institutions.

The Sixteenth Council of the Union was held in Richmond, Va., December 6, 1898. The President delivered an annual address and reports of the Secretary, Treasurer, Examining Committee, Board of Governors of Hebrew Union College, Librarian, Board of Delegates on Civil and Religious Rights, Committee on Circuit Preaching and Hebrew Sabbath School Union were presented.

The report of the Committee on Circuit Preaching showed that 122 visits had been made, covering 17 States and 47 towns; 7 Sabbath Schools and 2 Congregations were organized; 20 Rabbis participated in the work.

The Honorable Simon Wolf delivered the oration. The following resolution in relation to Zionism was adopted:

"While we are aware of and deplore the abject conditions to which many of our brethren are subjected in foreign lands, and which have naturally, but unfortunately, aroused in some of them a yearning for a re-establishment in Zion, yet we delegates of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in convention assembled, in view of the active propaganda being made at present for the so-called Zionistic movement, deem it proper and necessary to put ourselves on record as follows:

"We are unalterably opposed to political Zionism. The Jews are not a nation, but a religious community. Zion was a precious possession of the past, the early home of our faith, where our prophets uttered their world-enduring thoughts, and our psalmists sang their world-enchanting hymns. As such, it is a holy memory, but it is not our hope of the future. America is our Zion. Here, in the home of religious liberty, we have aided in founding this new Zion, the fruition of the beginning laid in the old. The mission of Judaism is spiritual, not political. Its aim is not to establish a State, but to spread the truths of religion and humanity throughout the world."

JEWISH STATISTICS

The statistics of Jews in the world rests largely upon estimates. In some English colonies, in Russia, Austria-Hungary, Germany and a few other countries official figures purporting to be accurate are furnished. In the main, however, the figures rest upon estimates repeated and added to by one statistical authority after another. In spite of the unsatisfactory methods by which the figures are reached, there are certain checks which warrant the statement that the numbers given are approximately correct. The totals, moreover, do not represent a maximum, as most of the figures (excepting those for England, Russia and the United States) are based on the census of 1890 and 1891.

THE UNITED STATES

As the census of the United States has, in accordance with the spirit of American institutions, taken no heed of the religious convictions of American citizens, whether native-born or naturalized, all statements concerning the number of Jews living in this country are based upon estimate, though several of the estimates have been most conscientiously made.

In 1818 Mordecai M. Noah estimated the Jewish population at.	3,000
In 1826 Isaac C. Harby estimated	6,000
In 1840 American Almanac	15,000
In 1848 M. A. Berk	50,000
In 1880 Wm. B. Hackenburg	230,257
In 1888 Isaac Markens	400,000
In 1897 David Sulzberger	937,800

Philadelphia, 1885–1899	36,390
Baltimore, 1885–1899	20,140
Total	547,850

If we add this immigration to the estimate of Mr. Hackenburg made in 1880, we secure a total of 778,107, without making any allowance for the natural increase in 20 years, nor for the immigration through Canada and other ports of the United States than New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The following tentative estimate by States is given, being based with a few modifications on the tables of Mr. D. Sulzberger:

Alabama	6,000	Missouri	35,000

* This number is a mere estimate. Neither the Statesman's Year Book, nor the Handbook of Jamaica, nor Mr. Joseph Jacobs gives any figures for Jamaica.

† In 1896, 15,831 Jews were drafted into the Russian army.

‡ The Statesman's Year Book gives 466,361 Jews in the Ottoman Empire. In some of the figures, however, the statement is "Jews, etc." On the other hand the Jews of Salonika are not counted. They probably form a community as large as that of Constantinople.

HISTORY

HISTORY OF THE JEWS.—By PROFESSOR H. GRAETZ. $2.00 per volume; $9.00 per set of 6 volumes.

VOL. I. FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE DEATH OF SIMON THE MACCABEE (135 B. C. E.). 553 pp.

VOL. II. FROM THE REIGN OF HYRCANUS TO THE COMPLETION OF THE BABYLONIAN TALMUD (500 C. E.) 656 pp.

VOL. III. FROM THE COMPLETION OF THE BABYLONIAN TALMUD TO THE BANISHMENT OF THE JEWS FROM ENGLAND (1290 C. E.). 675 pp.

VOL. IV. FROM THE RISE OF THE KABBALA (1270 C. E.) TO THE PERMANENT SETTLEMENT OF THE MARRANOS IN HOLLAND (1648 C. E.). 743 pp.

VOL. V. FROM THE CHMIELNICKI PERSECUTION IN POLAND (1648 C. E.) TO THE PRESENT TIME. 766 pp.

VOL. VI. CONTAINING A MEMOIR OF THE AUTHOR BY DR. PHILIPP BLOCH, AN INDEX TO THE FIVE VOLUMES, MAPS, AND A CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF JEWISH HISTORY.

"Professor Graetz is the historiographer par excellence of the Jews. His work, at present the authority upon the subject of Jewish history, bids fair to hold its pre-eminent position for some time, perhaps decades."—Preface to Index Volume.

OUTLINES OF JEWISH HISTORY. From the Return from Babylon to the Present Time.—By Lady MAGNUS. Revised by M. FRIEDLÄNDER. With three Maps, a Frontispiece, and Chronological Tables. 388 pp. Library Edition, $1.00; School Edition, 75 cents.

"The entire work is one of great interest; it is written with moderation, and yet with a fine enthusiasm for the great race which is set before the reader's mind."—Atlantic Monthly.

CHAPTERS ON JEWISH LITERATURE.—By ISRAEL ABRAHAMS. 275 pp. $1.25.

"The author has performed his task with admirable taste and judgment. He has written a primer of Jewish literature, it is true, an elementary manual, so to speak, but it is agreeably free from the faults of abruptness and fragmentariness so common to that class of booklets. ....It is not a mere bibliography, nor is it a collection of names and works; but a sketch in outline, warmed by the author's sympathetic treatment and enriched by his suggestive genius."—Jewish Messenger.

A SKETCH OF JEWISH HISTORY.—By GUSTAV KARPELES. 109 pp. Boards. 30 cents. (Special Series No. 5.)

"Dr. Karpeles's standpoint is a sane one, and his intimate acquaintance with the details of his subject has in no degree confused his sketch of the general development."—Critic.

JEWISH LIFE IN THE MIDDLE AGES.—By ISRAEL ABRAHAMS. 452 pp. $1.75.

"Mr. Abrahams has really done a very good and useful piece of work. He has taken up one side of mediæval life, and given us the means of getting a thorough understanding of it."—Bookman.

OLD EUROPEAN JEWRIES.—By DAVID PHILIPSON. 281 pp. $1.25.

"Philipson's book is a very valuable historical and ethnographical contribution."—GUSTAV KARPELES, Allgemeine Zeitung des Judenthums.

THE PERSECUTION OF THE JEWS IN RUSSIA.—87 pp. Paper. 25 cents. (Special Series No. 1.)

"The pamphlet is full of facts, and will inform people very fully in regard to the basis of the complaints made by the Jews against Russia."—Public Opinion.

ESSAYS AND MISCELLANEOUS WORKS

JEWISH SERVICES IN SYNAGOGUE AND HOME.—By LEWIS N. DEMBITZ. 487 pp. $1.75.

"A work which will keep up the knowledge and remembrance of the devotional life of the Jews as it was in the past, and of the liturgical literature as it evolved throughout ages and in various countries."—Jewish Spectator.

STUDIES IN JUDAISM.—By S. SCHECHTER. 359 pp. $1.75.

"Mr. Schechter is one of the few men whom we possess to-day who seem to understand that to popularize Judaism is not unworthy of the greatest scholar."—EMIL G. HIRSCH, Reform Advocate.

JEWISH LITERATURE AND OTHER ESSAYS.—By GUSTAV KARPELES. 404 pp. $1.25.

"The essays have the charm of an attractive style, combined with a subject of great and varied interest."—Independent.

SABBATH HOURS. Thoughts.—By LIEBMAN ADLER. 338 pp. $1.25.

"Rabbi Adler was a man of strong and fertile mind, and his sermons are eminently readable."—Sunday-School Times.

SOME JEWISH WOMEN.—By HENRY ZIRNDORF. 270 pp. $1.25.

"The side-lights which this book casts upon rabbinic life and thought will attract readers."—Critic.
